

LOTS OF POCKETS FOR SCHOOL GIRLS

The new fall models in coats for the young school girl are designed to have plenty of pockets. The model shown has four large patch pockets while brass buttons enhance the military tone of the coat. It has detachable cape collar and is made in a very warm chinchilla of navy blue.

In many of the suits the coats have wide skirts while the actual skirt is almost skimpy, and by the way the discrepancy between the decorativeness of the coats and the extreme plainness of the skirts is very striking. Most of the jackets have rows and rows of buttons set on in all sorts of unusual and unexpected places, patches and borderings of fur, enormous collars of varied shapes and elaborate pockets.

Many women will prefer the untrimmed suit because it will afford an opportunity to wear the separate fur pieces.

POTATO WEEK

Make Special Effort to Eat Potatoes
October 22 to 27, inclusive.

Washington, D. C.—Three purposes will be accomplished by a Nation-wide potato week in which every one will make a special effort to eat potatoes during the week from October 22 to 27, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. The first of these purposes is to encourage the eating of the tubers because at that time it is expected that potatoes will be the most available and economical starchy food; the second is to save wheat during this period; and the third is to encourage the general use of potatoes as a wheat substitute by the American householder.

The department makes the following suggestions in regard to the use of potatoes at dinner:

Potatoes at Dinner—Potatoes may be used freely at dinner, the variety which we all like being secured by varying the ways in which potatoes are best.

Many think potatoes are best when prepared in the simplest ways, that is, baked or boiled, but even so some variety is possible, for they may be baked in their jackets, or with the skins rubbed or scraped off, or pared and baked in the pan with meat, the juice they absorb improving their flavor.

The skins easily may be rubbed off new potatoes, and almost as easily from old potatoes, provided they first water.

Stuffed Potatoes—Cut baked potatoes in half, remove the pulp, mash it, add enough milk for the usual consistency of mashed potatoes, and season with butter, salt and pepper. Fill the baked skins with this mixture, dot the tops with butter and bake for eight or ten minutes in a hot oven. To vary this add to the mashed potatoes, before the skins are filled, any one of the following: Beaten white of egg (1 egg to 3 medium sized potatoes); grated cheese (one-half cupful to 3 medium-sized potatoes); chopped parsley (1 tablespoonful to 3 medium-sized potatoes).

Scalloped Potatoes—Use raw, thinly sliced potatoes in layers, each layer to be sprinkled with flour, butter, pepper, salt; lastly pour in just enough milk to be seen through the top layer, and then bake for about an hour, or until the potatoes are tender. This may be varied by adding in layers, hard-boiled egg, sliced, grated cheese; or minced ham.

PEACH SHORTCAKE

Mix two cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder together; rub in one-quarter cup butter, then add three-quarters cup milk and one egg. Spread on greased biscuit pan and bake in hot oven; cool five minutes, split, spread with butter and fill with peaches, cut in small slices. Cover with whipped cream, flavored with vanilla and sweetened.

GRAPE JELLY

Pick the grapes from the stems, then wash and put into a preserving kettle. Add water to one-half the depth of the grapes in the kettle. Cook until soft, mashing frequently. Drain, using a jelly bag. Take care not to squeeze the bag, as this will give the jelly a cloudy appearance. To the prepared juice, measure and use an equal amount of sugar.

Return the juice to a clean preserving kettle and boil for ten minutes before adding the sugar. Stir continually after adding the sugar until the sugar is dissolved. Cook until 222 degrees Fahrenheit is reached on a candy thermometer, or about eight minutes. Fill into sterilized glasses and seal in the usual manner for jellies.

Can You Distinguish The Army Insignia?

When you meet a soldier on the street you can tell at a glance in what branch of the service he's enlisted if you only note the color of his hat cord. When you meet an officer it is very embarrassing not to know how to address him. The designations are:

Blue cord, infantry.
Red cord, artillery.
Yellow cord, cavalry.
Red and white cord, engineers.
Lavender and gray cord, hospital corps.
Buff cord, ammunition and supply train.

Purple, white and blue, medical corps.

Gold cord, officer of the rank of lieutenant colonel or higher.

Gold and black cord, member lower than lieutenant colonel.

Red, white and blue cord, member of the officers' reserve training school. The rank of officers can be determined by the insignia they wear, as follows:

A second lieutenant has an apaulet with no bar.

A first lieutenant has an apaulet with one white bar.

A captain has an apaulet with two white bars.

A major has an apaulet with a gold maple leaf.

A lieutenant colonel has an apaulet with a silver maple leaf.

A colonel has an apaulet with a silver spread eagle.

A brigadier general has an apaulet with one gold star.

A major general has an apaulet with two gold stars.

A lieutenant general has an apaulet with three gold stars.

A general is exceedingly rare. Thus far in our history there have been only two—Washington and Grant.

Revival of the grade of full general is planned by the war department to provide a suitable rank for Major General John J. Pershing, commanding the American expeditionary forces in France.

FIND THE MISSING CYLINDER

If you are not a veteran motorist you may not have learned a simple way of determining which cylinder is missing. With the motor warm and running, open the cut out and retard spark and throttle to the limit. Grasping the handle of a hammer hold the head so that it reaches from the metal top of a spark plug to a part of the motor. Listen to the motor and if this short circuiting of that plug causes it to miss another beat, move on to the next cylinder, until you find the one where short circuiting seems to have no effect in the sound of the motor. Changing that spark plug will probably remedy your trouble.
